OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

[Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.] WASHINGTON, Sept. 11, 1361. A SKIRMISH. would be open and Sunday trains be run, a movement was set on foot among our This effernoon there was quite an affair on the road leading from Chain Bridge to Fall's Church. The Vermont Third and Maine Stath regiments were sent out to reconnotter, and when about three miles distant, they suddenly came upon large force of the enemy, variously estimated but supposed to number at least ten thousand men. The regiments, before they were aware, found themselves at rominent citizens, and the signatures of rome two hundred of our well known-business men secured to a protest, to the officers of the Society, against this unwise and improper measure. The matter was, however, reconsidered at the Fair Grounds, st,less ten thousand men. The regiments, before they were sware, found themselves almost surrounded, but fall back in excellent moder to our pickets. An artillery "due!," as General Beauregard would term it, followed at long range, which was kept up for more than an hour. There was a general bristling up of of both armies. The long roll was beaten throughout our camp, and each division assumed the position assigned according to progressme. We lost three killed and seven wounded. While this was taking place, the heavy guns at Fort Elisworth were heard. Instantly all Washington was on tip-toe on the roofs, with glasses, peering into the mist, and a smart rair, to catch a view of the distant battle. A donese column of smoke rose frem beyond Arlington, and imagination painted antold horrors. Now the enemy were advancing, now we were driving them—at least so said the wise men, as they listened to the boom—now deep and heavy, and then more faintly heard. But intelligence from the field spoiled all the vivid p intings; the troops at Elisworth were practising with the heavy guns. see how seriously the vitality of the ords of Fremont is impaired by the President's Order, we copy the section of the law of last Congress, in which the con-

POSITION AND INTESTION OF WIR REBILS.

The rebels have increased their force greatly this side of Manassas within a few days. They are continually making changes of position—at emingly to no purpose. They are, to all appearance, smelling around to see where they have the best prospect of success. I think if they make an attack upon our lines in any quarter, they will what before they get through an they had made it somewhere size. They have large numbers at Fall's Church and Fairlax Court House. The recombinance for a certainty what was only surmised before. It does not wanuable, in that we ascertished for a certainty what was only surmised before. It does not ream any point. The disposition of this force at present would indicate an intention of trying thair hand at Fort Corocan or at the Chain Bridge. General McClellan would be very happy, I doubt not, to recolve them at either door.

It hink we can begin to get an inking of what is to be done. McClellan is in no haste to advance, neither is Frenont. Their armies are not organized or well drilled. General McClellan, in his report on the Crimean war, declares his firm conviction that mere individual courage assess suffice to overco and rained forces, "but that it must be rendered managea bie by discipline, and directed by that consumates and mechanical skill which can only be acquired by a course of education instituted for the purpose, and by long habit." It is well known that the rebel army is not discipline will emble him to strike a declare blow at last. In October he will be ready, and what with a descont of an hun dred and fifty thousand on the Missississippi, also mains fail. Unless they make such demonstrations that is advance must be made at one, it will be tready. Termont will be ready. Vandalism of the Schein at St. Joseph.

Harrinal, Mo. Sept. 12.—The following appears in the Measurer of this morning:
"All we can hear confirms previous reports that the secessionst have full possession of St. Joseph, and are doing pretty much as they piezes in that city. It is represented that they have taken control of the municipal affairs of the corporation, preventing agrees and ingress of both mails and travelers. They have also levied heavy contributions on several stores, taking jost what they want. The steamer Omaha has been seized and appropriated to their purposes, and we learn that an effort was made to send the mail out by hand-car, but that it was intercepted and taken back. Hence a complete blockade caisis, which accounts for our getting no mail matter. The straight out Union men lave crossed the river to Kiwood for safety, and took the ferry boat with them.

At Istan and at Weston, it is said the secostionists permit no one to go into the town or out, without passes. From all we can learn, the Union men and their property in St. Joseph and surrounding country are completely at the mercy of the rebels, and den and the immediate interposition of Foderal arms to save them from annihilation.

Southern Illinois, the country which, in political sense, was peculiarly his own. While we make this gratifying acknowligement to the loyalty and zeal of our rethren in Egypt, they will not deem it aproper if we notice the mean attempt, south from Cross Lanes to the Lewisburg resenting that the one section brought on war and the other is doing the major reof the fighting. Brave men and patriots not talk in this way. The facts are, the river, to guard the road and the ferry; and he had, besides his own command, a de tachment of five companies from the 13th nearer Ganley Bridge, and there remained three days.

No battle being given at that point, General Cox ordered him back; but the withdrawal of the guard was taken advantage of by the enemy, who, during Friday and Saturday, had ironsported 4,000 men across the ferry at Camifax's, and were then in strong position on the cliffs adjacent. At a distance of seven miles from Cross Lanes, on his way back, Col. Tyler learned these facts, and also drove in a rabel picket. Word was sent to Gen. Cox, who replied that it was not possible that the enemy should be there, and he ordered Tyler to go on. Tyler did "go ov." driving in pickets at every mile, and the final result is known. His command was overpowered, and retreated upon Cherleston in as good order as pod sible.

Paine I was permitted to examine a most important set of documents. They were nothing less than the records and secrets of the camp of the Knights of the Golden Circle in the city of Paucas. When our troops arrived, J. Waite Fowler, the captain of that mysterious order, with a holy horror of the tenselous qualities of hemp, mounted his horre and jecontinently field to cear life. While preparing to flee he gave hearly directions to his body servant to hide or bury a box of papers and the arms in a criatin place, and as soon as possible to pack up a few valuables and bring them with his wife to Bloomfield. But searcely had he escaped when the troops landed, and every team in the city was pressed into the service to haul their beggage to camp; and it was impossible for Cunit to comply with the directions of his fugacious master. The pickets would not let him go at night, and the teams were all sgaln wasted next day; and in the meantime, Gen. Paine, getting a built that there was a rich leaf within the knowledge of the aforesaid contraband," sent a file of men, who, with bayonets pointed around him.

There is, st present writing, quite a large force from this poet out on an expedition to Salem, 25 miles south of here, which originated as follows: The Home Geards of Salem had explored some 15 or 30 prisoners who had buried their arms, and some rather summary measures were taken to make them tell where they were, and it seems they were successful, for the Guards were on their way to get the guns, and had got to Beanet's Mills, when they came on the picket guard of a band of 500 rebels under Schabel, I beleve. The announcement at the barracks from the Colonel that every man must be prepared to march, was received with the wildest enthusian, and the last day of their stay was a busy one. At noon on Saturday the order was given to fall in, the mkn obeying with the utmost alacrity. The larges part of the afternoon was devoted to a march through the principal portions of the city, and upon every hand their fine marching and truly martial appearance were the subjects of handsome compliment, no less gratifying and universal than the hearty enthusiasm which greeted them.

The line, of march from their barracks to the Freight Depot, where they embarked, was through the principal streets of the South Division. While the Regiment was passing the Thirden establishment, the order to "laif" and "right about face" was given. Col. Knoblesdorff then proposed three choers for "the Chicago Trinkins; the poper which has always defended the Right, Justics and Freedom." Like magic every cap was swing it is ir, and three rousing cheers were given with a will and a voinne which might have been kurd in Seccesia.

The reenes at the depot were interesting in the extreme, partaking largely of the characteristics which might have been expected if from a corps of old veterans. Wives, sisters and mothers were present in large numbers, but the good-byes were hurriedly said. Every man seemed overflowing with an excess of ley. Songs were sungl, the principal thems of yes. There was a better denand for Flour, owing to the announcement that an advance in railroad freights of 10c W bri would take place on Monday next, and fhe market for spring extras closed about lice higher. Winter wheat was in good de-mand and firmer, but there was no material im-provement. About 4800 bris changed hands, at $4.350,5.85 for Winter extras; $3.400,6.00 for com-mon to good spring extras; and $2.500,3.25 for common to choice spring superfine.
